WILLIAM L. RUSSELL DIES AT FRENCH LICK SPRINGS

Lima Capitalist Victim of Bronchial Pneumonia

ILL IN HOTEL THREE DAYS

Prominent in Development of Oil Business

William Lockard Russell, 63, of 649 W. Market-st., banker, oil operator and realty holder, died at French Lick Springs, West Baden, Indiana, at 11 o'clock Sunday morning after three days' illness. Bronchial pneumonia, developing from a cold, was the cause of death.

Russell left Lima Wednesday morning. Tuesday he was at the First National Bank, where he was chairman of the board of directors, disposing of business matters. He went to Chicago on business and from there to West Baden for a few days' rest. He contracted a cold enroute and was forced to take to bed Friday, the day after he arrived at West Baden.

Mrs. Russell and Mrs. O. E. Chenoweth, a sister-in-law, Dr. Chenoweth and Warren and Thomas McLoughlin were at the bedside.

The body was brought home Monday afternoon. Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

SURVIVING FAMILY

Besides his wife, Mrs. Beatrice King Russell, he is survived by his mother, Mrs. A. H. Russell, of Cleveland; two sons, C. D. Russell, of LaSalle, Illinois, and W. H. Russell, of Los Angeles; two sisters, Mrs. Robert Bolwell of Washington, and Mrs. A. L. Busch of Cleveland; and two brothers, Canon Russell of the Episcopal church, Washington, and A. H. Russell, Jr., of Cleveland.

Russell had been interested in oil operations for the past 40 years. He was president of the Hiawatha Oil company of Tulsa, Oklahoma, and was a partner of W. C. Skelly of Tulsa. He was interested, as an investor or more actively, in nearly every oil field in the United States, particularly those of Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, Texas and West Virginia.

He held extensive real estate interests in Lima, including ownership of the Orpheum theater building and several other structures in the vicinity of West and Market-sts. He held 99-year leases on the Collins-bik, in which the First National bank is located, and on the ground at Main and Highways occupied by the Woolworth building.

Russell was born at Zanesville, August 10, 1859. His father, A. H. Russell, was a pioneer oil operator, entering the business almost at the beginning of exploitation in the Pennsylvania fields.

IN OIL BUSINESS
He was educated at Hanoverton, Ohio; Logansport, Indiana, and Saginaw, Michigan. While still a youth he entered the oil business with his father in Venango-co., Pennsylvania, where the Russells held wide interests.

Russell had been a resident of Lima since 1902. His home on West Market-st. is pointed out as one of the most beautiful in the city.

Russell's life while a young man was one of full of adventure. When the Klondike became a magic word, Russell went into the far north and attained more than ordinary success in the gold fields. He narrowly escaped death during a great snow slide in which 86 men and three women lost their lives.

Russell was instrumental in recovering the bodies of six of the victims.

Three years before going north, Russell went to Venezuela, South America. He obtained from President Crispo concessions for the construction of a long distance telephone line. He acted in an executive capacity during the straining of 1500 miles of trunk line thru the Andes mountains. It was the first extensive telephone system built in South America and served 17 local exchanges.

While in South America, Russell was stricken with yellow fever. He treated himself and effected a cure. He is 18 of his employees died of the disease.

GIVEN DECORATION
At the beginning of a revolution he was directly responsible for saving President Crispo's life. He was rewarded with the decoration of the third degree of the Baste Bolivar, being the only private citizen of the United States to receive that distinction.

Before leaving South America, Russell brought about the building of a telephone system between Guayaquil and Quito, in Ecuador.

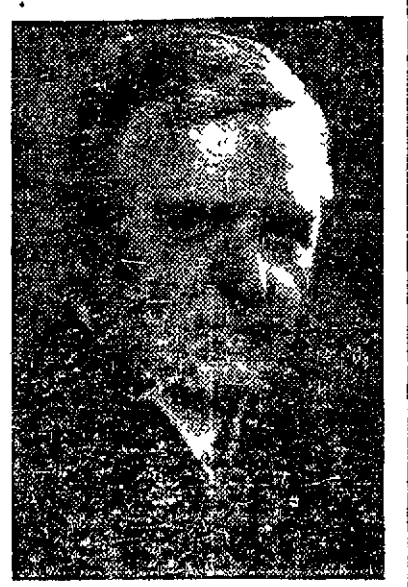

Russell was affiliated with the Republican party and was prominent in party councils. In 1904 he served as delegate from the Fourth district to the Republican National convention which nominated Theodore Roosevelt.

He was a member of the Masonic order, the Bks. and the Independent Order of Red Men.

WAR WITH TURKS THREATENS

French Reinforcements Rushed to Border of Syria

OTTOMAN TROOPS MOBILIZED

New Movement Alarms Peace Conference at Lausanne

PARIS—(Associated Press)—As a precaution against what is regarded as the threatening gesture of the Turks in concentrating 20,000 troops along the northern border of Syria, the French government has decided to reinforce its own military strength in the mandated territory by two divisions. This will place 46,000 men at the disposal of General Weygand who runs late this week for Beirut to take over the duties of French high commissioner in Syria and commander of the army in the east.

The reinforcement of the 26,000 French troops already in Syria was decided upon, it is understood, at a conference between Premier Poincare and General Pellice, French high commissioner at Constantinople, and head of the French delegation at the Lausanne conference.

General Pellice has been assured by Ismet Pasha that the Turks are not contemplating their forces against France, but the Paris government looks with disfavor on what is described as an effort by Ankara to exert pressure on France in the Near East.

CONFERENCE ALARMED
LAUSANNE—(United Press)—A French military gesture against Turkey caused grave concern at the Near East conference today.

Delegates at the conference awaited the arrival of General Pellice, the French Near East expert, from Paris to see to what extent the French expect to carry their move. It is feared that it may influence the allied and Turkish delegates here who are trying to find a suitable basis for peace.

General Pellice has been instructed, it is said, to tell Ismet Pasha, the Turkish leader at the conference here, that the French government regards the Turkish movement of troops as an "unwelcome war." This cannot be tolerated by the French government, which trusts Ismet personally but fears the general Turkish attitude, Pellice is expected to say.

He is to add, it is said, that France cannot trust some of the elements at Ankara who might wish to stir up trouble at the Syrian border, in order to influence the outcome of the present peace confab.

France has a mandate over Syria and her troops are already stationed to assist the Syrian army in patrolling the border.

Reports were carried more than a week ago that two divisions of Turkish forces have been moved toward Syria to a spot where they could easily reach the border in a day's travel.

GERMAN TROUBLE FEARED
BERLIN—(Associated Press)—May Day throughout Germany, it appears, will be dedicated to a celebration of what the workers regard as the unprecedented victory of the unarmed Ruhr laborers over the elaborately equipped troops of France and Belgium. With the possible exception of Bavaria, whence come rumblings of impending disturbances, reports reaching Berlin indicate that labor organizations will observe the day with the usual demonstrations.

The Bavarian government professes to have learned that various radical elements intend to use terrorism to force the workers into a general strike beginning at 6 o'clock tomorrow. The Socialists of Munich, it is said, have been ordered to carry such small arms as blackjacks and pistols when they parade and as a result the police have been instructed to assure protection to all persons who desire to remain at their usual employment during the day.

REPARATIONS UP AT WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON—(United Press)—The possibility of the United States participating in an international conference to bring about a final settlement of the reparations crisis, was again in the foreground of discussion in Washington today.

This aroused interest in connection with dispatches bringing fresh news of new reparations many is to make.

U. S. SHIPS MAY SELL LIQUOR CITY TO LEVY SEWER DEBT

Passage of the Taft bill over the governor's veto Saturday by the state legislature means that the addition of a levy to the general tax duplicate to cover the cost of Lima's $2,500,000 sewer construction program will not be submitted to the voters, City Manager Bingham said Monday.

The ordinance passed last Monday, transferring the cost of the sewers from benefitted property to the general tax duplicate, provided that "if necessary" the additional levy would be the subject of a referendum.

The Taft bill allows the city to add levies to the tax duplicate to pay maturities on bond issues outside of all limitation to an amount equal to 10 per cent of the assessed valuation of property within city limits.

The total assessed valuation of city property is $50,125,020. The city is allowed to issue bonds, therefore, for more than $5,000,000. At present, the bonded indebtedness of the city, outside of issues exempted from the 10 per cent requirement, is only $122,981, Bingham said.

By the Taft bill, the city is authorized to issue bonds for any purposes to the amount of more than 4 1-2 million dollars and collect interest and maturities by adding levies to the general tax duplicate. The bonded debt of the city on exempted accounts is $6,350,582.

DAUGHERTY LID IS BLOWN OFF

Booze Sale Permitted Outside American Waters, Court Holds

RUM BARRED FROM PORTS

Can't Enter on Any Vessel, High Tribunal Rules

WASHINGTON—(Associated Press)—The ruling of Attorney General Daugherty against the serving of liquor on American ships on the high seas was overturned today by supreme court which held at the same time, however, that the ban prohibiting both American and foreign ships from bringing liquor stocks into American ports under bond was legal and enforceable.

The court held that the prohibition amendment could not legally be applied to prevent American ships from selling on the voyages when they are outside American territorial waters. To that extent the decision reversed a decision in the case by Federal Judge Hand at New York.

Within the three mile limit, however, the court found that an entire different situation obtained. Sustaining the position taken by Judge Hand on that point, the decision declared it illegal for American or foreign ships to bring into American ports or waters liquor sealed in bond for the use of passengers on outgoing voyages.

IMPORTANT DECISION
The decision, regarded by the federal government as one of the most important handed down in regard to prohibition enforcement, was read by Justice Van der Venter. Justices McReynolds and Sutherland dissented.

Justice Sutherland delivered a dissenting opinion explaining that he agreed that American ships cannot have aboard intoxicating liquors in American territorial waters but believed the prohibition should not apply to foreign ships.

The majority opinion held that the words "transportation" and "importation" as used in prohibition legislation are to be taken in their ordinary sense. Transportation is held to be carrying from one locality to another. It added that it is not necessary that the transfer of possession or title should be contemplated.

In that connection the court observed that one cannot carry liquor in his own automobile for his own use.

Importation consists, the court said, of bringing a commodity into a country from the outside, entrance through a customs house not being necessary to constitute importation in the true sense.

The term "territory of the United States" was given the common definition as confined to territory over which the United States exercises jurisdiction as a sovereign power and three miles at sea from its shore lines.

LIQUOR CONFERENCE
NEW YORK—(Associated Press)—Officials of American and foreign steamship companies went into a hasty conference at the office of the Cunard Line this afternoon to devise a plan for handling of maritime liquor business under the supreme court ruling.

Ralph Long, 16, of 508 S. Main-st., escaped early Monday from the detention home, 484 N. Elizabeth-st., for the second time within three weeks.

Young Long, who is large for his age, broke the glass in the transom over his room door, unlatched it and escaped thru a new bath room which is now under construction. He got away between 2 and 3 a. m., according to Mrs. Ethel Neuffer, iron of the home, who said that little girl in the room next to Long's heard a noise about 2 o'clock, but was too frightened to call her.

Mrs. Neuffer found he was gone when she called him and received no answer at 5:30 a. m.

He escaped from the home on April 19, but was later found by police. Mrs. Neuffer said she thought that he had been a much better boy since the last escape and had almost decided that he had permanently reformed.

He is held for questioning in connection with small robberies in Lima recently, particularly the robbery of the store of C. F. Stanek, Fourth and Main-sts.

MARRIAGE LICENSES SLACKEN UP IN APRIL

April proved an indifferent month for the realization of matrimonial dreams of Allen-co. made. License records compiled by Miss Jessie Miller, clerk in Probate court, disclose:

"Pretty poor," remarked Miss Miller, scanning the record. "says here that in 1922, 105 couples were married."

EMERSON HOUGH IS TAKEN BY DEATH

Noted Author Dies in Hospital at Evanston, Ill.

CHICAGO—(Associated Press)—Emerson Hough, author, died in a hospital in Evanston today.

Hough was 66 years old and was taken to the hospital last Thursday suffering from an intestinal obstruction. An operation was performed Saturday. Heart and respiratory complications caused death.

Hough, who was a devotee of outdoor life, had written many western stories. His most recent book, "The Covered Wagon," recently was reproduced in motion pictures.

In the winter of 1895, donning skis, he traveled over Yellowstone National Park and his activity after this trip was credited with instigating the act of congress protecting buffalo herds.

Hough explored many of the wildest and most out of the way corners of the country and during his earlier years gathered much of the material for his later books of travel, adventure and romance. Many of his novels were of the historical romance type, involving the building of the west with its pioneer difficulties. The author was born in Newton, Iowa, June 28, 1857. He was graduated from the University of Iowa in 1880. Soon afterward began his travels in response to his love for the outdoor life and the beauties of nature.

2 HOMES ROBBED

Money, Jewelry, Clothing Loot of Thieves, Sunday

Two homes in the same neighborhood were entered by burglars early Sunday morning, according to reports to police.

Detectors are seeking the identity of the thieves who invaded the homes of William Wingate, 839 E. High-st., and T. Esbeck, 950 E. High-st.

The burglar entered the Wingate home thru a dining room window. Investigation by Sergeant Edwards disclosed. A pair of brown trousers, $18 in money, a buckskin purse, pearl handled knife and a 17-jewel watch and chain with the initials "R. W." on the case were missing when Wingate checked up Sunday.

A purse containing $8 was the only thing missing from Esbeck's home. Entrance was gained thru a side window, which was open, according to police reports.

SONS OF THE AMERICAN REVOLUTION MEET TUESDAY

CLEVELAND—Protest against the use of H. G. Wells' "Outline of History" in public schools will be made at the thirtieth annual state convention of the Sons of the American Revolution which meets here tomorrow, Harry H. Hoard, chairman of the entertainment committee, announced here today.

"We expect to file a vigorous protest against this book because when the young American goes to school he wants to know more about Washington and Franklin than he does about Mohammedism," Mr. Hoard said. "We deplore a 'skippling over' of the American Revolution period in American history classes. We believe we will make mother citizens if we connect tradition with a discussion of modern problems."

GIRL ATTACKED, NEGRO HANGED

Accused Assailant is Lynched by Mob at Columbia, Mo.

IDENTIFIED BY THE VICTIM

Man Pointed Out by University Professor's Daughter

COLUMBIA, Missouri.—(Associated Press)—Leaders of the mob which stormed the county jail here yesterday afternoon, cut thru steel doors with acetylene torches and hanged James Scott, negro, charged with attacking the 14-year-old daughter of Dr. H. F. Almstedt, head of the German department of the University of Missouri, are known, according to R. M. Hulien, Boone-co. prosecuting attorney who promises an immediate grand jury investigation.

At least one non-resident of Columbia led the mob which was said to have been made up of the rougher element of the city.

The state has evidence enough to identify the man who furnished the rope and the men who threw the negro off the bridge," Hulien said.

Fred Brown, sheriff, powerless to oppose the mob, hurriedly telephoned to Governor Arthur M. Hyde for troops but despite the prompt order of the governor sending the Columbia battery, the negro had been hanged before the guardsmen could be mobilized.

HURLED FROM BRIDGE

Scott was hurled to a bridge near where he was alleged to have accosted the girl and despite pleas of Dr. Almstedt that the law be permitted to take its course and Scott's own intercession of innocence, a rope was tied about his neck and he was hurled over the bridge railing. The fall broke his neck, according to a coroner's jury, and he probably died instantly.

The girl was not injured in the alleged attack. She said Scott, whom she identified positively, had summoned her to aid another child caught on the bridge and then seized her, but was frightened away by the approach of a hand car.

FATHER SENT FOR

When the sheriff saw that his pleading would have no influence on the mob he sent for Dr. Almstedt, thinking that the voice of the father of the girl might stop the lynchings. By the time the professor arrived the negro had been removed and the crowd had started for the bridge. Thruout the whole affair the mob was orderly.

"Mister," the negro said to a white man standing nearby, "before God I'm an innocent man. I couldn't die with a lie in my mouth. I never do it."

Two other negro prisoners in the cell with Scott, accused of similar offenses against negro girls, were unharmed by the mob.

Dr. Almstedt said, "I wanted to see the guilty man punished but not by mob violence."

"Do you believe he was the guilty man?" he was asked.

"I have no doubt that he was," Dr. Almstedt replied. "He was identified positively by my daughter."

BAKING COMPANY SUIT AGAINST PENNSYLVANIA COMPANY IS STARTED

Responsibility for an accident on the Pennsylvania Railroad crossing in Elida, May 11, 1920, will be determined in the trial of an action which commenced before Judge Fred C. Becker Monday. The Stolzenbach Baking company, Lima, seeks $2,491 damages from the railroad company for the loss of a break truck which was torn to pieces by a train.

Practically the entire morning session was consumed in attempting to agree on a jury. Attorneys for the railroad challenged a number of takers.

The accident upon which the action is based occurred at Elida May 11, 1920. The bakery truck approaching from the south along the Elida-Allentown rd was struck by a fast Pennsylvania train at the crossing.

The plaintiff asserts that no warning was given of the danger and no protection afforded.

SUSPECT HELD AS KING BEN

Man Believed Cult Chief Arrested at Marysville

MARYSVILLE, Ohio.—(Associated Press)—Michigan authorities are expected here today to attempt identification of a man, believed by Sheriff Charles Collier to be "King" Benjamin Purnell, much sought leader of the House of David, a religious cult at Benton Harbor, Michigan, which is now the subject of an investigation by the State of Michigan.

Arrested yesterday by the sheriff after he had communicated with Sheriff W. L. Smith of Kent-co., Michigan, and had received a detailed description of Purnell, the man last night refused to make known his name, when asked if he was "Purnell." He answered that he was "just a man."

He admitted, the sheriff said, that he had been a member of the House of David, but insisted he was "not the man they want." The sheriff is holding him on an investigation charge.

Driving a small truck in which he had living quarters, the man appeared here about three months ago, the sheriff said. By grinding tools and knives with equipment he had in the truck, the man made a living.

Always apparently well supplied with money, the sheriff declared he had a money bag filled with bills and coins when arrested. The description of Purnell, the sheriff asserted, tallies identically with the man he has under arrest.

Lying in a cell in the Marysville jail today, his flowing hair gleaming from under a cap and his glossy beard unkempt, the man steadfastly refused to tell his name or anything of his personal history.

To an Associated Press representative he again denied he is Purnell or has any connection with the House of David.

Marysville police today found a wide brimmed light felt hat in the truck the man has been using as a sewing grinding shop and home, strengthening their belief that he might be Purnell, as Michigan descriptions say the latter was wearing such a hat when last seen.

PERJURY CHARGES LIKELY

ST. JOSEPH, Mich.—(United Press)—Perjury charges against "virgins" of the House of David, are being considered by State Attorney General A. B. Dougherty, officials disclosed today.

Dougherty is investigating reluctance to give testimony given by young girls of the cult before Judge Harry Dingeman probing charges of immorality in the religious cult. Attention was also called by officials to discrepancies in ages given by brides participating in group weddings at the colony.

Some of the girls admitted swearing they were really older than they really are.

GOOD TIME TO PUT AWAY FUEL

Ted has joined that contingent of far-seeing citizens who are laying in their supplies of coal now for use next winter. The weather mascot has made a survey of the fuel situa-tion and has reached the conclusion that procrastination is the thief of time, in coal buying as well as in other things.

Prices may be lower later, but not likely, he fig-ures. However, he feels it won't pay to take a chance, as costs may be higher later. In any event, he proposes to guard against the possibility of getting none at all at any price.

Rye Crop Fails? Bootleggers May Use Clover Seed

Clover seed whiskey may displace corn and rye in the bootleggers' stock in trade.

Eight bushels of clover seed mash were found by Sheriff Cresson Sunday in an old well on the Roy Blaine farm in Auglaize-tp. It was just in the right stage, Cresson declared, for transformation into liquor by distilla-tion.

Cresson does not know whether the owner intended to suck the seed for mash or merely to conceal it in the well. The seed is believed to be that recently stolen from Joe Winegardner, Westminster.

No one is living on the farm where the mash was found.

STONE QUARRY IS TIRE CACHE

Fisherman's Hook Discloses Hid-ing Place for Loot

SPENCERVILLE MAN TAKEN

New Links Forged in Auto Ring Thefts, Police Say

Arrest of Kirby Rolls, 22, Spen-cerville, at Portland, Indiana, and the finding of stolen tires in an abandoned stone quarry west of Lima Sunday, are expected to give county authorities valuable evidence, they declared Monday, in the roundup of an interstate band of tire thieves for whom they are searching.

Rolls was placed under arrest by the Hoosier police Sunday. He is said to have resisted capture, but was subdued after a lively battle. He is the third member of the at-logged gang to be taken into custody.

Floyd Mofford is in Allen-co jail and Ray Krugh is in jail at Van Wert.

Sam Osburn, deputy sheriff, was sent to Portland Monday by Sheriff Cresson to bring Rolls to Lima.

NAMED BY MOFFORD

Rolls was named in the confession made by Mofford, as one of his ac-compllices in the Continental garage robbery. He may be turned over to the sheriff of Putnam-co, Prosecut-ing Attorney Lippincott said, after being questioned here.

A fisherman, who cast his line into the old Colger stone quarry near Spencerville-rd Sunday, hooked a brand new tire, still encased in wrapping paper. He reported his catch to the authorities.

A thin wire attached to the tire, moored it to the shore.

Finding of the tire convinced Sheriff Cresson that the old quarry may be the hiding place of other hot stolen tires from more than a score of small town garages in Indiana and Ohio.

SEQUESTERED-SPOT

The place is rarely visited and has not been worked for a number of years.

Water gradually seeping into the pit has filled the lower portion. The water is said to be 20 feet deep in places. The quarry is an ideal spot for concealing stolen tires officers say.

An attempt will be made to drag the pond Monday afternoon, Sheriff Cresson announced. A boat will be hauled to the spot and the bottom of the pond combed with grappling hooks.

DISORDERLY CONDUCT CASE IS REFERRED TO COMMON PLEAS COURT

Monday in criminal court he told Judge Jackson it made him mad, he lost his temper and was disorderly in trying to explain to the man that walking with another man's wife was not proper.

Judge Jackson decided to let the common pleas court settle the case, as McClain will be brought up there for violating an injunction issued recently to keep him from bother-ing his wife pending hearing of a divorce action. Hearing on the com-mon charge is set for Tuesday.

HURT IN CRASH

Auto Knocks Machine Off Road And Speeds on

G. W. Logan, 769 Holly-st., was reported to be seriously hurt in an early morning automobile crash Sunday, when a stranger driving a high powered car ran into his ma-chine near the B. & O. Railroad crossing on the Wapakoneta-rd.

He was conveyed to his home by Sheriff H. B. Cresson, who was called by farmers.

Logan was driving south alone at a leisurely speed. He saw a ma-chine approaching rapidly from the south. He turned out, he says, to give the north-bound car half the road.

The stranger did not swerve from his path and crashed full tilt into Logan. Logan's car was knocked off the road and upset. He was in-jured beneath it.

7 MEN MISSING

Steamer Sinks off Coast of Massachusetts

VINEYARD, Mass. — (Associated Press) While the lighthouse tender Ancon was taking from the Vineyard sound lightship today the 22 survivors of the steamer Sea-connet which sank in the sound yester-day, the coast guard cutter Achusnet was cruising adjacent waters in search of the seven men who were missing.

Details of the sinking were un-known.

This island was discussing today the fact that the Seaconnet was the third vessel to go down in the sound within the last few months, all suddenly, and the first two—the Schooner Natalie with a crew of four men and the run running steamer John Dwight, with 12 or 15 men—with the loss of all on board.

Island folks awaited the explana-tion of the Seaconnet sinking from the survivors, wondering if run running and pirates were in-volved.

REFUSES TO LAY WAGER ON SPEED LIMIT OF HIS AUTO; PAYS FINE OF $10

He told Judge Jackson his car wouldn't go over 35 miles an hour. “I'll make you fine $10,” the judge offered, “and we'll let Officer Watkins drive it and if it will make over 35 miles an hour you can pay me $20. If it doesn't make 35 miles you don't pay anything.”

Schneider paid $10, but wouldn't bet.

PROBLEM FORMED BY WASTE LAND

More County Aid Sought in Ot-tawa Street Improvement

Presence of much waste land amidst the property to be assessed within the corporation limits (the improvement) of the Defiance-rd, north of Ottawa, is causing city of-ficials to seek more county aid on the project.

Some of the land is merely the banks of the Blanchard river, Mayor W. A. Beutler said. At such places the river is only within a few rods of the road. Considerable por-tion of the property on the west side of the road cannot be assessed even ten per cent because of its un-tiltable condition and impossibility of erecting buildings on it, the mayor declared.

SUSIE SMART'S ADVICE

Dear Miss Smart: I am a 17-year-old and am keeping company with a new young man of 19. He loves me very much and wants me to become his wife. But my father and mother won't hear of our getting married because this young man has no money to buy a nice home. They don't want to give their consent to me to go to live with him. I love him dearly.

Would it be all right for me to go away with him and get married without their consent? He says that if I don't marry him I will be sorry later. I love him dearly.

WORKWORLD
N. O. don't go away and get married without your parents' approval. It seems most unlikely that they would object to the young man solely because he is unable to buy a home. Comparatively few are able to have a home of their own when they marry. It may be that they object to him rather because they fear that he has not the industry or the ability to save which would insure you a comfortable home in due time.

Dear Miss Smart: Please tell me how much tax I would have to pay on a $4,000 home. How much tax would have to be paid on $1,000 in the bank and how much on $2,000 in interest?

ELIZABETH
I will refer you to the County Auditor of the County Treasurer, whose offices are in the Courthouse.

Dear Miss Smart: I read in a Chicago newspaper recently that a new Spanish liquid can make any hair naturally curly in 20 minutes. I would like to try it on my little sister, but I am afraid it will harm her hair. I want to ask you if it would harm. Will you please answer my question in The Lima News?

BROWN HAIR AND BLUE EYES
I know nothing of this "wonderful new discovery." I would be rather careful about using any kind of liquid on the hair. The possibilities are many that it would bleach it or take the life out of it. I know curly hair is a decided asset, but better have straight hair than to ruin it by using an untried curling liquid on it.

Dear Miss Smart: Would you please tell me what would be an appropriate instrument for a girl to learn to play besides the piano? BLUE EYES
Next to the piano, the violin has proven the most popular of musical instruments for girls.

DEPUTY ACCUSED OF SHOOTING,

WHISPERING SAGE

By Harry Sinclair Drago and Joseph Keel—Copyright, 1932.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

For revenge upon Dick Acklin, big boss of the Double A Ranch, Buck Bodine, new owner of the old Webster place, plots with the Buques of Paradise Valley to blow up Acklin's dam. Through her little blind brother, Basil, Mercedes Arrasado learns of a mysterious journey taken by her brother Esteban to Bodine's ranch. From there she follows the trail until she becomes exhausted and falls many times, scratched and bleeding.

NOW GO ON WITH STORY

To the girl it was a sternity before the moon peered through the tops of the tangled cedars. Trees and brush began to take shape. Mercedes went on. She found a tiny spring trickling to her right. She wet her lips with its water and followed its course. Soon she caught the beat of waves. She had come out to the shore of the lake. She cried out with new courage. Her voice rolled over the water to the cove where her brother lay.

Esteban jumped at the sound of it. He had already waited long past the appointed time to send the craft adrift. The echo of that c. in the awful stillness decided him to tarry no longer. He cupped his hands to his lighted match, and the long fuse began to sputter. The wind at his back caught the flame and carried it a healthy push, and the raft with its deadly load floated away across the silvery water.

He did not wait to speculate on the success of his errand. He had had hours of that. Before long he was dashing for the buttes, intent only on reaching the valley.

His going brought no sound to the girl. The moon had given her her bearings, and keeping over within sight of the lake, she stumbled to the north, dragging her tired body to new torture. A glowing pin-point of fire moving across the water caught her attention. Its even, unhurried flight fascinated her. It was beautiful, unreal, ghastly. But as she watched it, the raft moved out of the shadows of the opposite shore into the full light of the moon. She knew what it was then, even before the wind had sent it close enough to make recognition possible. The truth left her strangely unmoved. She even found herself admiring the cleverness of the men who were resting on the raft. They had schemed well to boat Acklin! The never-hating approach of the raft, the black bulk of the mine rising from its surface, the glowing fuse held aloft as if it were a light at a masthead, brought no cry from her lips. This was the thing she had come to stop.

SALTY TEARS RAN INTO THE CORNERS OF HER MOUTH. FROM HER LIPS CAME A WILD, ALMOST INSANE CRY.

could hear the sputtering of the fuse. An eddy or a whim of the wind caught the raft then and sent it away from the shore. She could not swim a stroke. Just what she intended to do she did not know; but she knew she could never reach it, riding along as it was, fifty yards from the bank. She found, however, that she kept abreast of it as she followed the margin of the lake toward the dam.

This was all very well for a time, but as she came to the cove that cut back into the hills she began to despair. By the time she had got around it the raft would be far ahead. But without looking back she started on the attempt. She had not made more than half of the way, when she darted a glance at the moving raft. It was but a few feet behind her. She saw it actually riding along at what she beheld, if it had been a liner raking port the raft could not have turned more accurately and headed more directly for the little cove on the shore of which she stood. Mercedes ran toward it. She saw its speed slacken. Then came a second when it seemed to stand still. The next moment the current was moving it back into the lake.

Without stopping to ask herself what she would do, or how she would get back to the land, if she were once on the raft, she jumped for it. The force with which she landed was impetus enough to send it bobbing through the water until the cove was yards behind her.

She scrambled to her feet and with her boot-heel ground the coal into ashes.

A little trickle of oil had seeped back to where she had crunched the end of the fuse. The wind had fanned an unseen spark to life. The flames were mounting higher and higher, sending out greedy tongues that licked at her body. In a rage of helpless impotence, she raised her torn hands and struck and beat the iron thing before her. She was on her knuckles and fingers, bleeding, but she was fast losing the power to feel pain. Salty tears ran into the corners of her mouth. From her lips came a wild, almost insane cry.

CHAPTER XXVIII

The Rescue
Esteban was coming to the higher ground where his trail turned to the sound when he heard a horse whinny. He had to put his hat over his mount's nose to keep him from answering. The other horse called again; never this time. The boy did not wait. He wheeled and galloped back over the path he had just come from. When he had returned his way some two miles, he turned to scan the lake far below him. His pulse jumped as he caught sight of the flaming logs; now so near the dam that from where he watched it seemed they must strike any minute. What had gone wrong? What had set them afire? Had his companions been caught by the Double A men?

In the confusion resulting from it he intended to make another dash for Webster Creek. No matter where Romeo and Bodine were, they must be counting the seconds even as he. And while he waited the Double A men from Disaster Peak to the Bull's Head, kept their watch, unaware of the danger that was sweeping down upon them. Kildare alone, of all Acklin's riders, moved nervously about. Blaise had not forgotten his talk that morning with Mercedes. Esteban's mysterious trip, coupled with Morrow's belief that trouble was brewing, seemed to argue more than mere coincidence.

He was within a quarter of a mile of the water when he caught the first dim reflection of the burning raft. From where he stood the fire seemed to be on the other side of the canon. He could not see the lake itself, but the faint red tinge in the sky moved. By that he knew that something was burning on the water. There wasn't timber of any sort east of the dam. He sent My Man into a gallop.

In kaleidoscopic fashion he saw the mine; the petrified girl shielding her face from the flames; the dam twenty yards away. He cupped his hands and called to her. He did not stop to ask how she came there. He only saw the leaping flames, and guessed the intent of the black thing that bulked on the surface of the raft.

Nothing could save the dam. It was doomed! A minute or two, and it would be all over. Jumping to her reason would not help. If he ran out on the dam both of them would be killed or swept away and drowned.

He called to Mercedes; but she barely moved her head. Blaise called again. That voice! It seemed to come from leagues away; a phantom voice!

Kildare saw that she did not move. He cried out again. The wind whipped the sound of it behind him. But the girl looked up. She saw him and raised her head. Blaise jerked his reata from his saddle-horn and ran to the very edge of the bank.

"Take off your skirt," he cried. "and wet it and wrap it around you. Catch my rope when it drops."

Mercedes nodded her head.

The raft was within ten feet of the dam as his reata began to play thru his fingers.

Seconds—they are hours sometimes—were dawning by as his rope circled lower and lower. There would never be time for another trial. He had to make it now!

There was no room for a miss. An instant—brief; life seemed to stop. Kildare blinked his eyes, cleared them of the film that blinded him. Seconds were moving at express-train speed; yet even so meaningless, irrelevant thoughts presented themselves in the entirety. Nothing seemed hurried. He had raised his rope. In quite its accustomed way, it leaped out. He watched it now. It was dropping. The girl's hands were still upraised. The rope was falling over them. It was at her waist. He was pulling them. It was subconscious effort.

A scream rose from Mercedes; she shot away from the raft. He could look down and see the water cascading over her as he dragged her thru it.

He heard the raft bump the dam. Some one was calling; Chet or Melody; no doubt. He heard the which to brace his feet; and hand over hand began paying in his reata, lifting her to safety. She was half-way to the top of the ragged wall when Kildare felt rather than heard a snap.

His arms trembled. There was nothing to do but risk the chance that the unraveling reata would hold. He leaped out over the water until Mercedes was a dead weight on him, and pulled. Another strand broke, but he had raised her to the top. His hands caught her as she fell. He lifted her and she was beside him.

Then it came, with a warning, a trembling of the earth. Thunder rolled in his ears. The dam was gone. They were down, knocked flat! My Man went to his knees. Pieces of rock, from the size of a pea to big, jagged fragments of granite that would have killed had they struck, rained about them. Water splashed down in sheets.

Mercedes did not move. Kildare rolled her over and over. The girl's body was cold; her pulse seemed to have stopped. Blaise crouched her, and beat her with the flat of his hands. He continually raised her hands to expand her lungs.

LETTER FROM LESLIE PRESCOTT TO HER MOTHER.

MRS. JOSEPH HAMILTON
Oh Mother dear, I had no idea that things were so expensive. At the prices you have to pay for things now I expect you have got a million dollars worth of furniture in your's and Dad's house. I don't know how I am going to furnish our apartment even with all the beautiful wedding presents for four thousand dollars, and the money you and Dad gave me is all the money I have.

Jack hasn't saved a cent but he seemed to think I had the resources of the First National Bank to draw upon. He even wanted me to let him have a thousand dollars of that money to pay on a block of stock he had been buying of the concern. He was terribly grouchy because I said that you had given that money to me to furnish our home and that you would be annoyed if I used it for anything else.

He told me that I ought to furnish the whole apartment for a thousand dollars. Anyway, we might save a little money out of our windfall to invest. Then, Mother dear, I was nasty—I really was so tired, you know. I reminded him that he had saved no money out of a good salary and I doubted if he knew how expensive things were since the war.

He just said, "Huh" again and asked if I were ready for dinner. I told him yes, although I knew I was looking like a tramp. I went down stairs but I could not eat.

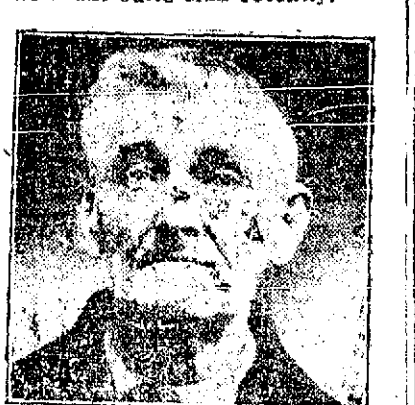

Already I was beginning to think that I had paid too much for the apartment but Jack wouldn't allow me to ask him anything about it.

Lima Man Says Plant Juice Is Finest Remedy He Ever Took in His Life

CAN'T PRAISE IT TOO MUCH

"Your Plant Juice is the finest medicine I ever took in my life. It has improved me 100 per cent and I am glad to recommend it," said Mr. James Gamble, of 210 East 1st street, Lima, while talking with The Plant Juice Man recently.

MR. JAMES GAMBLE

"Several weeks ago I contracted a severe cold and it seemed to settle over my whole body. My chest was sore and I had pains in my back and such terrible pains in my knees that I could hardly get up or down. I had no appetite, was so nervous I couldn't sleep and was all run down and very weak.

"Some of my neighbors told me about your Plant Juice medicine and asked me to try it and I did so and am mighty glad now for it has improved my condition. The soreness has left my chest and the pains are nearly all gone from my back and knees so that I can get up or down without effort. My food tastes good and my nerves are getting steadier every day so that I sleep fine.

"It seemed that your Plant Juice went right to the bottom of my trouble at once and I can't say enough for it and gladly recommend it to the public."

During the past few months, this herbal medicine, Plant Juice, has produced surprising results in several thousand cases in Lima and vicinity. People say Plant Juice seems to act like magic in cases of stomach, liver and kidney troubles.

The Plant Juice Man is at Hunter's drug store, 49 Public Square, Lima, where he is daily assisting the local public and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy. Free samples given.

Plant Juice is sold also in Lima at Hunter's drug store at Main and Wayne streets and at the Arsonne drug store, opposite Post Office.—Adv.

He said that I was a married woman and I should have some idea of what money would buy, that he was getting five thousand dollars a year and that should tell me what he could afford. As nearly as I can find out, four thousand dollars won't buy anything you want. Do you know that when I came to rent an apartment I had some sort of vague feeling that one might pay a fifth of one's income for rent. It seemed to me I had read that on some woman's page in a newspaper. That only meant a thousand dollars a year.

Mother, did you ever see the apartments that are advertised for a thousand dollars a year? When I saw them I almost wished I had never got married.

I did not see one that didn't need redecorating and they were small and the bedrooms opened on the courts. I thought of my great airy bedroom at home with its sleeping porch and Jack's nice hotel room. I knew he would be as unhappy as I.

Mother, I am going to tell you something I have learned already about this marriage business. You have got to have something besides just the kind of love that sweethearts have to make it a success.

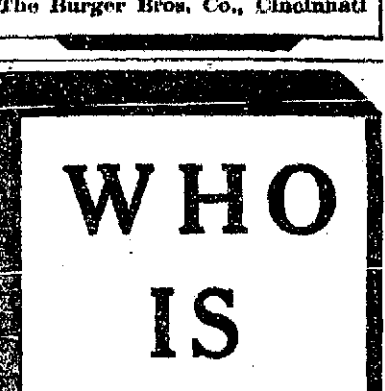

Your loving DAUGHTER.

MUTT AND JEFF—THE LION TAMERS ARE HOLDING AN ENDURANCE DANCING CONTEST—

BRINGING UP FATHER—

—By McMANUS

SHORT SHAVINGS

George Smith, farm hand near Gomer, made a Sunday trip to see the sights in Lima.

The farmer he works for didn't think much of that. "Now that he's taken to gadding about," said the farmer, "the first thing we know he'll be wanting to make another trip to Lima."

Pat O'Connor reports a friend went to a drugist to have a cut finger tied up. The drugist asked if he thought he could stand the treatment without fainting. That gave him a notion. He fainted. "But instead of giving him a drink," reports O'Connor, "the drugist splashed his face with cold water from a faucet."

Howard Dean, of the Lima Trust Co., interviewed an applicant for the job of bank bookkeeper. He was a bit startled when the applicant said his salary in his last job at Graz, Austria, was $1,400,000 a month. He wasn't so startled when he figured it out that this was $20.

Walt Dewees put his new derby hat on the seat of a chair in a self-serve lunch room to show the seat was taken. When he came back with a loaded tray, he forgot and sat on the hat. "I got up so quick," he adds regretfully, "I spilled the coffee and dropped the cup on my foot."

G. Lantzenheiser writes that nearly everyone in his neighborhood has been interested in the courtship of a young doctor whose courtship now is on the rocks. She has returned his gifts and he has sent her a bill for many visits, mostly night calls. Rumor has it that she says he had better look out or the rats will get him as he is "a big piece of cheese."

It was a warm afternoon on the day coach of a thru train, writes a young woman who signs herself B. M. W.

"I was thirsty but didn't care to drink the ice water in the tank or the pop which the news agent offered. "I thought of grape juice or orange phosphate and as there was a buffet car in the rear, I asked the good-natured conductor if they served drinks there outside of meal hours."

"He bent low and with a far-away mischievous look in his eyes replied, "Only soft drinks, miss."

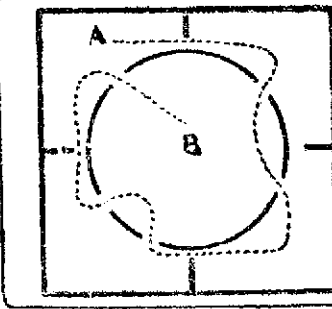

Reed Winegardner, attorney, tells of a man who went into a soft drink saloon and asked for a lemon pop.

Then he asked for a glass. The bartender was about to hand him the glass when he noticed the glass was dirty. He started to wash it. As he finished the customer drank the last drop from the pop bottle.
